Engineering for Kids

Aerospace Engineering Jr.

Aerospace engineering is one of the newest disciplines of engineering, facilitated by the growth of the aviation industry in the late 1800s and early 1900s. Aerospace engineers are responsible for the design of aircraft and the subsequent assembly or construction process. Aerospace engineering can also be further broken down into two separate branches: aeronautical engineering, which deals with the design of near-atmosphere aircraft, and astronautical engineering, which involves exo-atmosphere spacecraft. Available for ages 5-8.

Definitely wear a paint shirt or smock- this paint is permanent! Available for ages 12 and up.
